Whites Realize It.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, April 2.—At the regular monthly dinner of the Baptist Social Union, held at the Manhattan Hotel tonight, John S. Wise, former Congressman from Virginia, spoke on the negroquestion. The attitude of the nation, he said, toward the question has all along been that of indolence. No white man, he asserted, would subscribe to a policy that meant ultimately a blight upon the race to which he belonged.

"It is idle to-day," he said, "to try to enforce laws permitting the negro franchise. You cannot find a white man, no matter where he lives or under what circumstances you go to him, who will subscribe to a polloy that means eventually a possible negro domination.

"There is only one solution to the negro question. Whe nation must recede from the position taken by it on the matter of negro suffrage. The nation must remit to the State control of the suffrage Issue. This may be a great concession, but it is a concession of sound, common sense.

proceeded in his peculiarly energetic manner to deliver his address. The address throughout was received in a most cordial manner.

PRESIDENT'S SPECH.

The address was as follows:
Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlomen:
To-day I wish to speak to you, not merely about the Monroe doctrine, but about our entire position in the Western Hemisphers-a position so peculiar and predominant that out of it has grown the acceptance of the Monroe doctrine as a cardinal feature of our foreign policy; and in particular I wish to point out or; and in particular I wish to point out cy; and in particular I wish to point out what has been done during the lifetime of the last Congress to make good our posi-tion in accordance with this histor-policy.

tion in accordance with this historical polloy.

Ever since the time when we definitely extended our boundaries westward to the Pacific and southward to the Guif, since the time when the old Spanish and Portuguese colonies to the south of us asserted their independence, our Nation has insisted that because of its primacy in strength among the nations of the Wostern Homisphere it has certain duties and responsibilities which oblight to take a leading part thereon. We hold that our interests in this hemisphere are greater than those of any European power possibly can be, and that our duty to ourselves and to the weaker republics who are our neighbors requires ut to see that none of the great military powers from across the seas shall emeronet upon the territory of the American republics or acquire control thereover.

croacts upon the territory of the American republics or acquire control there over.

This polley, therefore, not only forbids us to acquiresoe in such territorial acquisition, but also causes us to object to the acquirement of a control which would in its effect be equal to territorial aggrandizement. This is why the United States has steadily believed that the construction of the great Isthmian Canal, the building of which is to stand as the greatest material feat of the twentieth century—greater than any similar feat in any preceding century—should be done by no foreign nation, but by ourselves. The canal must of necessity go through the territory of one of our smaller gister republics. We have been scrupulously careful to abstain from perpetrating any wrong upon any of these republics in this matter. We do not wish to interfere with their rights in the least; but, while zarefully safeguardins them, to build the canal ourselves under provisions which will enable us, if necessary, to police and protect it, and to guarantee its neutrality, we being the sole guarantor. Our intention was steadfast; we desired action taken so that the canal could always be used by us in time of peace and war alike, and in time of war could never be used to our detriment by any nation which was hostile to us. Such action, by the detrumstances surrounding it, was necessarily for the benefit and not the detriment of the adjacent American republics.

TIPE OAUSE.

After considerably more than half of a century these objects have been exactly fulfilled by the legislation and treates of the least two years.
